Northstar Urgent Care Cooperative (NUCC)

Status: Approved; scheduled effective 10 October 2024 · Version: 1.0
Effective window: 10 October 2024 through 24 October 2024, inclusive
Site: Northgate only · Access scope: operations_leads Intended users: Personnel eligible for operations_leads under NU-OPS-010 · Local owner: Northgate Site Lead · Approved by: Director of Operations

Fictional educational test material. This approved exception covers administrative supply receipt handling only. It becomes effective on 10 October 2024 and expires at the end of 24 October 2024. Before that window, use the applicable current receiving process. It does not provide clinical or patient-care guidance.

1. Exception purpose and owner

This exception establishes a short-term receiving arrangement for Northgate while the site's receiving desk is unavailable during a planned records-room reconfiguration. All details of this condition and arrangement are fictional facts for this corpus.

The exception addresses only a delivery of eligible supplies arriving without its order or transfer reference available at handoff. The Northgate Site Lead owns the local receiving record and temporary hold. The Facilities Coordinator remains the central supply-routing role under NU-OPS-008.

2. Site, supply, and date scope

This exception applies only:

- At Northgate.
- From 10 October through 24 October 2024, inclusive.
- To non-clinical paper goods and office-use labels covered by NU-OPS-008.
- When the delivery's order or transfer reference is unavailable to the receiving staff member at handoff.

It would not cover other supply classes, other sites, or deliveries outside those dates. Medical, clinical, laboratory, patient-care, controlled, or otherwise separately governed materials remain outside scope and must not be handled under this exception.

3. Temporary receiving steps

During the effective window, only personnel eligible to retrieve `operations_leads` documents under NU-OPS-010 may retrieve and use this exception procedure. A Northgate receiving staff member may physically accept a delivery under the routine receiving process in NU-OPS-008; physical receipt alone does not grant access to this exception or authorize its temporary steps. The Northgate Site Lead owns the local provisional record and temporary hold. The Director of Operations approved this cross-site procedure exception. The Northgate Site Lead may apply these steps to an in-scope delivery lacking its reference at handoff:

1. Check the visible item description, count, and package condition. Do not open a sealed package solely to identify its contents.
2. Make a provisional entry in the Northgate receiving log with date and time, item description, observed quantity, visible condition, carrier or supplier reference if shown, and the role of the person recording the entry.
3. Label the entry reference pending and identify the next owner as the Northgate Site Lead. Do not record the delivery as matched, complete, or approved.
4. The Northgate Site Lead must designate and record an appropriate non-clinical administrative holding location before this step is used. Keep the package intact there, separate from ordinary stock, until the order or transfer reference is matched. This exception does not identify or establish a specific holding location. If no appropriate location is confirmed and recorded, this exception cannot be used for that delivery; follow the applicable current process.
5. Send the provisional entry ID and available delivery details to the Facilities Coordinator. The site lead updates the local record when the reference is confirmed and applies the ordinary receiving steps in NU-OPS-008 before moving eligible items to ordinary storage.

This is a receipt-and-hold path only. It does not authorize substitution, distribution, use, disposal, or a purchase commitment while the reference remains unconfirmed.

4. Recordkeeping and discrepancy handling

The Northgate Site Lead owns the provisional local receiving entry and records the later reference match or the unresolved disposition. The Facilities Coordinator remains the central follow-up route. Keep the entry open until the reference is matched or the discrepancy is handled under NU-OPS-008 and its disposition is recorded.

If the item, quantity, condition, or paperwork also presents a discrepancy under NU-OPS-008, follow that guide's discrepancy requirements, including keeping the affected item identifiable and separate and routing the record to the Facilities Coordinator. This exception does not relax or replace those requirements.

5. Unchanged request and approval rules

This exception changes no supply request, purchase, or fulfillment approval rule. A receipt acknowledgment or provisional log entry is not approval. NU-OPS-008's request and approval boundaries remain in force, as do its routine discrepancy, record, and closure requirements except for the narrowly stated temporary reference-pending receipt path above.

All requirements unrelated to this specific Northgate receipt condition remain unchanged. Harbor Point and Alder Creek continue under their applicable current receiving process.

6. Expiration and return to routine process

The exception expires at the end of 24 October 2024. Beginning 25 October 2024, Northgate returns to the routine receiving process in NU-OPS-008. Any provisional record still open at expiration remains subject to the ordinary discrepancy and follow-up rules; expiration does not close it or establish a disposition.

Before 10 October 2024 and after 24 October 2024, this exception is inactive and staff must use the applicable current process. This notice does not authorize the temporary steps outside its effective window.
